MOST NOTABLE VICTORY SINCE WARSAW

(By United Press)

Berlin, August 18.—The great Russian fortress of Kovno was captured by the Germans last night by troops under General von Hindenburg.

An official statement from the war office declared the fortress of Kovno taken together with much war material, which has been in the hands of the Germans since last night, including 400 cannon.

The capture of Kovno was the most important German victory since the taking of Warsaw. The Germans used 42 centimeter guns together with other heavy artillery to force the surrender of the Russian fortress.

The Russians are beginning to evacuate the fortified railway center of Bialostok, one of the final points on the Kovno-Brest Litovsk line, and the junction point of the great Warsaw-Petrograd railway and the Brest-Litovsk railway, before the onward march of Von Hindenburg's army. The big machinery works at Bialostok have been dismantled and removed to the interior. A large number of the civilian population has fled. Military men took this to mean that the Russians do not intend to hold the Kovno-Brest Litovsk line.

The German advance on Vilna on the Warsaw-Petrograd railway was due to immediate action of General Von Hindenburg driving in the north.

The fortress of Novogorodivsk is about to fall. German troops have stopped and captured two more of the forts on the northeast side of Novogorodivsk. Six hundred prisoners and twenty cannons were taken in the capture of the Novogorodivsk forts.

At the southern end of the Russian line of defense, Brest Litovsk is now under attack by Mackensen's troops who drove the enemy across the Bug and on to the outer positions of the fort.

Georgia's New Executive To Make Strenuous Effort to Discover and Punish Those Responsible for Frank's Death.

(By United Press)

Atlanta, August 18.—Governor Harris will take personal charge of the investigation into the lynching of Leo M. Frank. It was announced at the executive office here today that Governor Harris was understood to be far from satisfied with the explanation given by the members of the official board of the state prison farm.

It seemed impossible that Frank could be taken from the prison farm when it was so strongly guarded. The executive was also displeased that the Atlanta authorities permitted the body to hang while exposed to the view of thousands of people. The widow of Leo M. Frank is rushing to Brooklyn with the body.

CANVASS OF TOWN SHOWS INCREASE IN SCHOOL KIDS

119 More Pupils to Attend
Next Year Than Last Exclusive of High School

Figures of Officer Leavy Show Relative Increase in Various Wards of the School District.

Treasurer Officer Leavy has completed his canvass of the town to ascertain the number of pupils that would attend the public schools this year. It has just become known from these figures that there would be 1501 over the age of 6 and under the age of 16. This shows a marked possible increase over last year's attendance, as the total number enrolled for the year 1914 was 1382.

An increase was made in all the four wards, the third ward showing the largest increase which was 73 pupils.

In 1914 the enrollment from the first ward was 173 and in 1915 it will be 191, an increase of 18. In 1914 the enrollment from the second ward was 414, in 1915 it will be 418, an increase of 4 pupils. In 1914 the enrollment from third ward was 400 and in 1915 it will be 473, an increase of 73 pupils. In 1914 enrollment of fourth ward 390 and in 1915 will be 419, an increase of 29 pupils. The total enrollment for 1914 was 1382 and in 1915 it will be 1501, a total increase of 119 pupils. At this rate the new high school will soon be filled with an increase of 119 each year without counting the number of pupils who come into the high school from various schools each year.

MRS. PANKHURST LEADS 50,000 WOMEN DEMANDING WORK ON MUNITIONS TO SAVE ENGLAND.

Enormous crowds of women thronged Victoria Embankment July 17th despite a drizzling rain, to participate in the women's procession voicing the demand that the British government utilize women in the work of making ammunition and in replacing the men. It is estimated that 50,000 women were in the procession which was led by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst (3rd from left, front rank). With the paraders were also a number of titled women including Lady Colebrook, Lady Knollys and Mrs. Waldorf Astor.

Greater Losses Reported From Other Districts Following the Recent Gulf Coast Storm

(By United Press)

Dallas, Texas, August 18.—Railroadmen reaching Temple, Texas, from Houston over the Santa Fe reported great damage in the latter city as a result of yesterday's storm. Hundreds of buildings have been unroofed and many completely destroyed, they said. Electric and gas plants are said to be out of commission and the entire telephone system paralyzed. From Houston to Rosenberg the whole country is devastated and is under from two to four feet of water, according to the railroad men. They said they heard the damage in Houston alone estimated at $5,000,000.

Wire communications with Galveston, Houston and other gulf points is still cut off and cannot be renewed for several days.

Smithville, Texas, August 18.—The crew of a Stane Fe work train reaching here from Texas City junction at noon, reported the track torn up and that they were unable to proceed further. They say they found eighteen bodies at Hitchcock, 20 miles from Galveston. Several signs from Market street, Galveston, were found scattered all the way from Hitchcock to Texas City junction, they said. The water is reported to be three miles further inland than in 1900 when Galveston was nearly wiped off the map.

Austin, August 18.—Reports received here from Houston newspapers today stated that ten houses were blown down in Bellaire, a suburb. Two persons were killed. Practically every big establishment in Houston was badly damaged. Seabrook, a small town twenty-five miles from Houston was nearly annihilated. Texas City also suffered heavy damage and is in need of food supplies. A boat load of provisions has been sent there from Houston.

Zeppelins Inflict Heavy Damage
Somewhere on British East Coast

(By United Press)

London, August 18.—Zeppelin airships again raided the English east coast last night killing ten persons and wounding thirty six. The admiralty statement said the zeppelins escaped. This is the third air raid made by zeppelins on the east coast within eight days and the seventeenth air invasion of England since the war began. This afternoon's official statement, like those issued following previous air attacks, contained no mention of the locality of the raid. The official statement said the "east coast" was raided. This was taken to mean that Kent and Essex, lying directly east of London in which the eastern suburbs of London are located, were visited by the zeppelin.

There is just enough danger to the success of the former members of the Washington party at the next month in the implied threat of the Democrats to challenge them to cause the former Ball-Moore to be wide awake to prevent the success of the Democratic challenge.

The law provides, "If an elector districts other than in cities of first, second and third classes, called as a member of a party in the election at the primaries as to his enrollment, he shall make oath before the election officers, that at the preceding November election when he voted, he voted for a candidate of that party." It should be noted that this provision applies only to primary elections and nothing to do with the regular election in November.

All that is necessary for the former Washington party members should they be challenged under the provisions of this law is to ask for a Washington party instead of a public ballot. It will be their privilege then to write in the names of their candidates whether they be Democrats, Republicans or otherwise and their vote will have the same effect as it would have if cast for a straight Republican ballot.

At the November election, members of the Washington party changed their registration prior to June 21, or at a later date under provision of the law, may not be challenged under the provision of the section of the election law, and will not be required to make oath that they voted for a majority of the public candidates at the last preceding November election.

All Republican candidates bear these facts in mind and instruct the individual members of the Washington party who are registered this year as Republicans. If they are so instructed and will take the trouble to challenge to write in the names of their candidates on a Progressive ballot the boasted weapon of the Democrat will be robbed of its effect.

Vote in Washington.

The Clearfield Women's Suffrage association has succeeded in obtaining Earnst W. Smith to speak at woman suffrage at the Bigler camp meeting on Friday afternoon August 20. Some time ago Mr. Lammie suggested it to the association, as he thought that it would be a very good feature of the camp meeting program. Mr. Smith is well known over the west as an author, lecturer, and publicist. He aided the women to gain the vote in Washington in 1920. After the vote was won in Washington Mr. Smith made a careful study of the condition in that state and other suffrage states, which has enabled him to tell the real facts concerning woman suffrage.

This exceptional training and experience has made Mr. Smith an eloquent and forceful speaker. He has a keen sense of humor which makes his speeches bright and interesting. When he sets forth his first-hand knowledge of suffrage and its advantages, in his forceful style, he invariably makes a splendid impression on the cause.

THE THREATENED CHALLENGE

Our Democratic friends are making a big fuss over the opportunity which the law offers them to challenge the vote of former members of the Washington party who will support the Republican candidates at the coming elections. Bosh. Ask the election officers for a Washington party ballot if you are challenged, write in the name of your candidate, and laugh at the Democrats.

GEORGIA

One who knows the good people of Georgia is loath to believe that verily a press dispatch is true. The thing is so improbable, so unlike the act of men who are a part of the civilization of which we boast, that it seems almost in credible. Frank may have been guilty. No man will ever know whether he was or not. But yesterday's act was not an act against an accused man. It struck at the very foundation stone of our existence by trampling over the sacred right of the citizen to the ballot box. Georgia has a great future, and much to be done.

A DOUBTFUL ESTIMATE

If we are to believe it, the process of elimination in the list of candidates for county offices this year should have begun long ago. The public office has begun to be a thing of the past. A comfortable majority of the candidates for office should have been swatted long before they were put forth in the first place. Such a heavy burden places too great a burden upon the voter. The list comprises a hundred or more names, all of whom are well known in the county for one reason or another, whose family connections and ramifications are of such character and amplitude as to make them of at least a measure of support, or worse. The list is long, and most of them claim no other disqualifications.

We pointed out on a former occasion the unworthiness of some of the candidates who are out for a job. The lightest excuse under the sun other than the fact that they have lived here all their lives, and the people owe them something. When a man resorts to the ballot for support, a sensible man must think that he has little else to offer.

We turn to the situation, Mr. Voter. Do not allow yourself to be made the victim of sympathy or of family relationship in your duty to your county. Nominate men who are fitted to the offices they seek, and do not allow yourself to be deceived by empty words or well turned phrases. Support one not qualified by education, environment, training and good repute—all qualifications necessary if the offices are to be filled with men who will perform public service as a duty of citizenship which is not discharged with the oath of acceptance.

A DOUBTFUL ESTIMATE

The computations of the bloody costs of the war contained in an appeal issued by London by the French Relief society go far beyond all previous estimates in some particulars. Russia heads the list with 733,000 killed, nearly two million wounded, and total casualties of nearly three and a half millions. Germany comes next with 492,000 killed, 852,000 wounded, and total casualties, including the missing, of more than a million and a half. France follows, with 400,000 killed, 700,000 wounded, and total casualties of 1,400,000. Austria's total losses are estimated at 1,235,000; England's at 428,000; Belgium's at 307,000; Serbia's at 226,000; Turkey's at 181,000; Japan's at 1,210. The grand total of killed, wounded and missing for all the nations engaged (exclusive of those in the Italian army and navy) is given as 8,770,810.

Such a record for the nine of the ten nations engaged during less than a year of war is appalling. It is to be hoped that the French Relief society, backed by the urgency of the need of help, has not been misled. If any one can rest assured that the above figures are considerably low, we are not aware of it. It is said that the French Relief society has been misled by the German government, and that the figures are from the German side. The French Relief society's estimate may be safely guarded as of doubtful accuracy. Although it may not be far beyond the truth, it is at all, except in a few particulars, a very doubtful estimate.

LITTLE TALKS ON HEALTH AND HYGIENE

By Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., LL. D.

Benjamin Franklin said, "Nine men in ten are suicides."

The indifference of individuals to their continued personal welfare which inspired this remark one hundred and sixty-nine years ago applies equally today. Conditions have changed in many ways and some of them are less beneficial for the individual.

Carefully accumulated statistics show that there has in all probability been a steady increase in Bright's Disease and other degenerative diseases incidental to advancing age, within the past few years. Certainly the number of deaths from this cause is sufficiently high to warrant the serious consideration of every individual advancing toward middle life. Of course everyone now-a-days is familiar with the doctrine of fresh air, exercise and simplicity of diet, etc., which make up the creed of the sanitarian.

Few are willing to go to the far end of the road of denying themselves the pleasures of eating, drinking or indolent ease. They are perfectly aware to be sure that indulgence is unwise. They have been warned by other people's experiences and not improbably have been admonished by their medical adviser as to the evil effects of certain favorite indulgences. But the fact that a single gratification of their weakness is not likely to be accompanied by any of the foreboding effects seems to lead the majority of people on regardless of the ultimate accounting with nature is certain to demand. The way of least resistance seems to be the popular path.

Probably every individual will admit to himself that he is running a risk and that the ultimate outcome will probably prove serious. Nevertheless he continues to do so there is more than a medium of truth in what Poor Richard said.

Self-denial and temperance may seem Spartan virtues to the self-indulgent but they are worth cultivating if one would challenge Father Time and his gnat companion.

APPROPRIATION LIKELY TO BE ASKED FOR FEDERAL PEN

Need of Prison for Women is Specially Emphasized

Washington, Aug. 18.—Housing federal prisoners has become so serious a problem that it is possible Congress will soon be asked for an appropriation for another penitentiary for want of room in federal places the government has been distributing male and female prisoners among state prisons, and there are good reasons, it is thought, why these, especially the women should be directly under Uncle Sam's control.

Inadequacy of present prison facilities is causing Attorney General Gregory no little concern. After a recent inspection of the penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, he announced that he intended to ask Congress to make further provision for prisoners. There are but few federal penitentiaries—Atlanta, Ga., Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and McNeil Island, Wash. A new one probably would be located somewhere in the East. It would strike a good medium, it is thought, between Atlanta and Fort Leavenworth.

"One of the reasons why the federal government should cease sending its prisoners to state institutions," said the Attorney General, "is that the parole law cannot be properly administered unless prisoners are kept directly under the eyes of government agents. Then, besides, this thing of scattering women prisoners all around is bad generally."

The need of a special prison for women was emphasized by the Attorney General. The possibility of such an institution being authorized is considered remote, yet the head of the department of Justice will sound sentiment in Congress on the point.

Uncle Sam has only about 40 out of 500 women in his own prisons. There are approximately 600 males that the attorney General thinks should be taken out of the State penitentiaries.

Labor at federal prisons is a distinct problem with the department of Justice. If the attorney General can have his way all federal prisoners will soon be turning out general supplies for the government, including equipment for the army and navy such as uniforms, shoes and caps. Congress will be asked to authorize this. The scheme has worked well in Japan. This is pointed out as another reason back of the plan for the concentration of all federal prisoners in federal places.

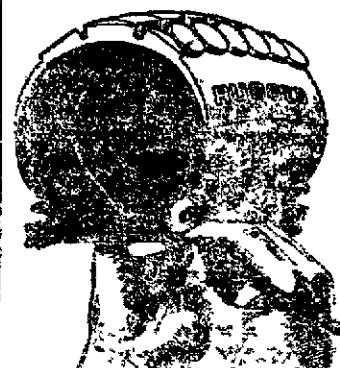

There are approximately 3500 federal prisoners in all their combined labor on supplies would save Uncle Sam large sums of money.

REMNANT OF SUEZ DISASTER STILL ANNOYS WATERWAY

Turko-Germans in Syrian Desert Pester English Forces Guarding Canal

Officers Tell Unpublished Details of Fatal Peninsular Expedition of Last January to Correspondent.

BY HENRY WOOD.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Constantinople, (By Courier to Dead-End) and thence by mail to New York July 13)—Somewhere down in the interior of Syria are several thousand German officers and men who must remain there either until the war ends or until Kaiser Wilhelm changes his mind. It is their duty to annoy the Suez Canal.

With neither sufficient men nor sufficient war material at their disposal to do any damage they must nevertheless make enough showing to force the English at all times to keep large contingents of troops in Egypt for the defense of the canal. They must hold themselves back in the desert out of harm's way, subsisting as best they can, until a favorable moment presents itself. Then they must swoop down on the canal, and by capturing some lone vessel or in some other way obstruct navigation even if only for a few hours. Then they must dash back into safety of the interior of the desert.

These are the orders.

These men are the remnants of the tragic Turko-German expedition which was sent last January against the canal.

As a recompense for their faithfulness an officer or a soldier is occasionally given permission to come up to Constantinople for a renewal of contact with civilization. From these officers and men I learned a few still unpublished details of the disaster of last January.

When the expedition finally approached the canal after having pushed its way across the desert for weeks carrying pontoons for crossing the canal and transporting the bulk of its water in tin cans, the plan of attack decided upon was that usually employed by the Austrians. Simultaneous attacks were to be begun by the right and left wings in order to distract and engage the enemy and then the main body of troops comprising the center was to make the dash for crossing the canal.

To the surprise of all the attacks met with such little resistance that the center in its mad rush to get across did not stop to build a pontoon bridge but leaping into the pontoons themselves leaped to the other side. There the mystery was explained. Along the front of the canal were found whole lines of trenches which the English evidently had abandoned in haste at the approach of the expedition. Into these trenches the Turks piled and began at once establishing their position when suddenly the English artillery stationed miles away but having the precise range of the trenches poured into them a terrific fire.

A mad rush was made for the other side of the canal where the survivors gathered up their wounded and loading them onto camels pushed back into the desert to a point where Dr. Ward, head of the surgical department of the American Protestant College at Beirut had come down with a Red Cross unit. There the wounded were taken care of until it was possible for them to return north.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A very delightful birthday party was held in Woodland at the home of Mrs. H. B. Mason in celebration of her sixty-fourth birthday. A delightful supper was served, which was enjoyed by all those present. After the feast the time was spent in singing and playing games, and viewing the many beautiful gifts that Mrs. Mason had received. The following were present: Mr. John Mason, Martha Mason and daughter, Anna, and son Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mason and daughter Margaret, Mrs. Chailey Snyder, daughter's Grace, Mabel and Margaret and sons, Guy and Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Lillian Lashberry, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eakley and daughters, Elizabeth, Mildred and Ray, and sons, John and Norman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pellerin, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Colter and son William, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bigham and daughters, Twilla, Iowana and Martha, Mrs. Jessie Leash, Mrs. Anna Young, and Miss Edna Neat, Ellis worth Rafter and daughter Edna, Miss Charles Eason and daughter's Aodene and Beale, and son Burton and Mrs. John Jordan.

NEGRO BUSINESS MEN MEET

(By United Press)
Boston, Mass., Aug. 18.—Members of the National Negro Business League, which was organized in Boston in 1900, returned here today for their annual session which will be devoted largely to a review of the steady and widespread progress made by negro business men in the past fifteen years. The sessions will continue three days, during which time successful negro merchants in all fields will tell their business stories so that the younger generation of the race may profit by their experience. Booker T. Washington is the founder of the league and will be the chief speaker of the convention.

ENGLISH PRISONER TELLS OF KILLING OF MEN IN TURKEY

New On Supposed by Ottomans to Determine Nations Future Existence

Constantinople, July 21 (By United Press Staff Correspondent)—The English prisoner of war, who was taken into the hands of the Turks, was unconsciously helped off by one of the Turkish soldiers recently. Upon his arrival at a hospital at which the American Red Cross is in charge he expressed his amazement at the resemblance of the American doctor, whose name for obvious reasons I dare not mention, to an English soldier whom his company had taken prisoner a few days before and later had killed.

BASEBALL

Pitcher Ruth and catcher Cady of the Red Sox form the best hitting battery in the major league.

Its surely a strange sight to behold an outfielder labeled Athletics down in the basement and the elevator not running.

The frequently reported sale of minor leaguers to the New York Yankees makes it appear that the Yankees are determined to strengthen their outfit at any cost.

Manager Huggins of the Cardinals says the Charley horse suffered by Outfielder Wilson has cost the Cards at least ten games this season.

George Cutshaw, the clever second baseman of the Superbas, certainly is coming into his own as a genuine star of our national pastime.

The fine work of Washington's young pitchers recently has been a great help to Walter Johnson in keeping the Griffins up in the race.

"Smoky Joe" Wood's return to pitching form has been the bright spot in the hard struggle of the Red Sox to keep out in front in the American league race.

George Brickley, brother of the Harvard star, has not been a success as a professional ball player. He has been released by the Lawrence club of New England league.

Now comes the hardest tussle of the entire season for the Phillies. From now on the Dodgers, Pirates, Braves, Cubs and Giants will be doing their durn'dst to overthrow Pat Morans husters.

Pitcher Barnes, who goes from the Three-I league to the Boston Braves, enters the main top with a record of having beaten the White Sox 3 to 2 in an exhibition game.

Since 1906, Ty Cobb's second season with the Tigers, he never has been outside the .300 set in hitting. Twice he has gone above the .400 mark, reaching .420 in 1911 and .410 the following season.

Charley Hall, the St. Paul pitcher and veteran of several big league campaigns, has set the American association agog by his wonderful twirling. His great work for the Kellys this season will more than likely land him another trial in the big show.

It will be a case of brother against brother next season when pitcher Goveleskie, recently purchased by Cleveland from the Portland Pacific coast league team, is pitted against Detroit's great heaver of the same name.

New York fans never could be made to believe it if the Superbas copped the National league pennant and won the world's series. Gotham bugs never have been able to see the Braves as a championship team, so how could they be expected to see Brooklyn.

The ten-cent baseball introduced by the Federal league may put a crimp in the attendance at the games of the International league and American association in the cities where these leagues clash with the Feds, but it is doubtful if the two-jitney articles is successful in the national and American league cities.

A team made up exclusively of former Cincinnati players who are still pasting in the big yard undoubtedly would be able to give the present Red outfit a real run for the money. The ex-Reds' lineup: Pitchers—Humphries, Cheney, Douglas, Ames and Ragone; catchers—Doolin and Gonzales; infielders—Johnson, Huggins, Egan, Lobert, Neihoff and Phelan; outfielders—Bescher, Paskert, Becker, Hinchman and Moran.

BRYAN AT SERVICES HONORING A FRIEND

(By United Press)

Bloomfield, Ia., Aug. 18.—William J. Bryan, former Secretary of State was the principal speaker here today at the dedication of Weaver Park, the old homestead of Iowa's soldier statesman, and reformer, purchased by the city and dedicated to his memory as a park. James G. Weaver and Bryan were lifelong friends. Bryan followed Weaver in his Populist campaigns and later Weaver was Bryan's right hand man in the first 16 to 1 campaign.

All through their public life Weaver cut the way to new reforms and before his death had started the nationwide prohibition movement as a political issue. Thousands of former friends of the dead statesman, many old soldiers who followed him in war and still other thousands of people anxious to hear Bryan are here today.

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH OF AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

FRANCIS JOSEPH CELEBRATES 85TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

Health of Emperor Very Unsatisfactory—Never Recovered From Late Illness

Capital Displayed Many Flags But No Attempt Made to Make Popular Holiday—Funds Devoted to Relief Hospitals.

(By United Press)

Vienna, Aug. 18.—Amid the storm and streets of war the people of Austria-Hungary interrupted their daily routine today to pay tribute to the Emperor Francis Joseph on the occasion of the eighty-fifth anniversary of his birth. The capital displayed many flags in honor of the anniversary and Te Deums were celebrated in all the churches throughout the dual monarchy. There was no attempt, however, to make a popular holiday of the occasion. In accordance with the desire of His Majesty the funds customarily spent on popular festivities to mark his birthday were donated to the various war relief funds. During the day the venerable ruler received innumerable telegrams and letters of congratulations, including a partially felicitous message of greeting from the German Emperor.

The health of the aged Emperor is far from satisfactory. It is known that he never fully recovered from his serious illness of several years ago, although he made a brave attempt to get about as usual and to adhere to his customary daily routine. But months ago his uncertain step and his general bearing betrayed the fact that he was beginning to feel the weight of his years.

Since the beginning of the war the Emperor has passed much of his time in the solitude of his beloved Ischell, visiting the capital only when affairs of state demanded his presence here. His infrequent appearances in public of late have caused the circulation of all sorts of reports regarding his condition. It has been hinted that the venerable sovereign is rapidly breaking up mentally as well as physically and that he possesses no clear comprehension of the recent progress of the great struggle in which his country is engaged.

The physicians in attendance as well as the members of his Majesty's entourage, have made vigorous and unqualified denials of these reports. On the highest authority it is declared that the brilliant mental faculties of Francis Joseph remain unimpaired and that his life is

Mrs. W. C. Hembold and Miss Louise Hembold left Monday for Sulphur Springs where they will spend some time. They were preceded to Bedford by Mr. Hembold.

EPISCOPALS TO HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC TOMORROW

The Episcopal congregation of Clearfield will hold their annual picnic at Mineral Springs park today. Due to a popular belief that the Frenchville picnic is always held on a day that good weather is assured the Episcopalians have decided to hold their picnic on the same day so as to have good weather for their annual outing. The people who wish to participate in the outing are requested to be at the church at 9 o'clock with everything ready.

They will be taken to Mineral Springs in busses.

TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS DONATED TO LOCAL CHURCH

The Episcopal church has received a donation of $200 from Mrs. J. C. J. Kurtz to be applied on necessary improvements and have decided to have the inside of the church remodeled.

The old carpet has been taken up and the floor filled and painted, carpet will be used in the aisles only from now on. A number of other changes have also been made.

PORCH PARTY GIVEN TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Arthur Row, gave a delightful porch party on Tuesday afternoon at her home on second street. The out of town guests were: Mrs. Skutchman, of Johnstown, Mrs. Clarence Stewart, of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Fannie Moore, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Ed. Bridge, of Paola, Florida.

not seriously threatened by his physical ailments.

The deep concern manifested by all classes in the health of the old Emperor is not difficult to understand. He enjoys not only the love of the people he rules—a love having in it much of the intimate, unreasoning character found in that of a child for its father—but from foe as well as friend, from high and low, from high and low, from stranger and familiar, respect, sincere and full-measured, in his. It is this love and respect shown by all classes which, in the troublous times the empire is now experiencing, justify the statement that the empire in its present form will endure so long as Emperor Francis Joseph lives, and it is because of realizing how much of the old Emperor's power over his people is purely personal that calm-thinking men fear that when he has laid the scepter aside the entire governmental structure may be overthrown. Particularly are fears expressed as to the outcome should the passing of his Majesty occur before the restoration of a general peace.

Francis Joseph came to the throne in the midst of war and his long reign has been an unbroken succession of the most racking struggles. It is not the trait of the Hapsburg to yield and Francis Joseph can be counted on to fight to the bitter end. Yet there is sincere regret in the hearts of all his subjects that the subjects that the eighty-five year-old Emperor is not even to be vouchsafed blessings of peace for his dying days.

WHAT IT COST TO RAISE A DAIRY COW

(By United Press)

There are over 21,000,000 dairy cows in the United States and these cows must be replaced every few years. The cost of producing the heifers that will keep up the supply is, therefore a matter of great importance to dairymen. Recent investigations by the Department of Agriculture indicate that in good dairy sections it is profitable to raise only the best heifers and that except on cheap land or under very favorable conditions, the raising of scrubs does not pay. On the other hand, the dairy farmer who raises well-bred stock finds a home market for the feeds grown on his farm, maintains the fertility of his land, and ultimately dispose of his heifers at a profit.

The department's specialists found that in Wisconsin and in other dairy districts in the north and East where land and feed values are much the same, at the end of a year it has cost an average of $39.53, to raise a dairy calf and at the end of two years $61.41. Of this amount, nearly two-thirds was for food the market value of which was charged against the heifer. Labor formed 12 per cent of the total, and the remainder was charged against interest, equipment and the use of buildings, the share of the general expense for the entire farm business, and losses by death etc. These items are usually overlooked in estimating costs, but they must be met in some way.

This estimated cost, of course, may be greatly reduced in sections where feed is very cheap of where pasture are available for the greater part of the year. In good dairy sections, however, well-bred heifers two years old are worth considerably more than $80 and, furthermore, it is difficult for dairymen to buy productive cows at a reasonable price. They are, therefore more or less compelled to raise their own stock. In view of the expense of raising heifers at all, it is desirable that they should confine themselves to good stock.

SOUTHERN CATTLEMEN'S MEETING

(By United Press)

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 18.—Evidence of the growing importance of the cattle raising industry in the south was afforded here today by the large and representative attendance at the opening of the third annual convention of the Southern Cattle-men's association. Nearly 1000 delegates were present, representing the States of Oklahoma, Texas, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Arkansas, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Louisiana.

Features of the initial session this morning were a greeting by Governor Henderson, the presidential address of F. L. Derby, of Ward, Ala., and an address by Dr. A. D. Melvin, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture.

Speakers to be heard at the subsequent sessions, which will continue three days, will include H. F. Auten, of Little Rock, Prof. D. T. Gray of Raleigh, L. A. Young of Chattanooga, Dr. W. H. Dalrymple of Baton Rouge, Archibald Smith of Robinsonville, Miss. A. L. French of Cascade, Va., and Prof. C. L. Willoughby of Gainesville, Fla.

BIG GOLF MEET OPENS

(By United Press)

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.—Professional and amateurs lined up to tee-off at the Glen Oak country club here today in the annual contest for the open championship of the western Golf Association. Prizes totaling over $700 will be divided five ways among the winners. In the event an amateur should win, an appropriate medal will be given him, and the full amount of cash named for such prize will be awarded to the professional next in order.

Members of all clubs holding membership in the association were entitled to enter and this brought out a goodly number of middle western stars of the links. Play will end tomorrow night.

DELTA THETA PHI FRATERNITY

(By United Press)

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 18.—Several hundred delegates and visitors, among them many eminent members of the legal profession throughout the country, met in Detroit today for the biennial convention of the Delta Theta Phi fraternity. The society is one of the largest and most prominent of the legal fraternities, having chapters at more than 30 of the leading law schools in the country.

WESTERN OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

(By United Press)

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.—In the western open golf tournament which started today on the Glen Oak club links at Lombard, the golf cracks of the middle West are to strive for honors against the best of the Eastern talent, as represented by Champion Walter Hagen, Tom McNamara, and M. J. Brady. The tournament will be concluded tomorrow.

KEEPING CHICKENS ON A SMALL SCALE

Many Waste Products Can be Used for Food

(By United Press)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—Poultry can be kept successfully on a small amount of land, for this reason, it is particularly adapted to the suburbs of large cities and to small towns. The waste products of the kitchen and the table may be used to advantage and there is always a market for eggs and dressed poultry or, if used at home, the consumer is certain that he has strictly fresh product.

When many birds are kept in a small space however, the ground is likely to become foul. It is, therefore, advisable to divide the lot and sow part of it with some quick growing grain such as oats, wheat or rye. In this way the yards may be rotated every three or four weeks during the growing season, the hens being turned on the growing grain when it is a few inches high. A good combination is oats and wheat in equal parts, sowing six or seven bushels to the acre (43,560 square feet).

For the poultry house, about four square feet of floor space per bird should be allowed for the general purpose breeds. The other essentials are fresh air, dryness and sunlight.

Birds that are two-fall will lay few eggs. It is, therefore, advisable to make them work for most of their feed by scratching in the litter of which there should be about four inches on the floor. A good feed mixture is a scratch ration composed of equal parts of corn, wheat and oats and a mash of two parts corn meal and one part each of bran, middlings and corn meal. Feeding about equal quantities of the scratch ration, and of mash. This should be scattered in the litter morning and noon, allowing a small handful for every three hens. At night the birds should be given all they can eat of it in a V-shaped trough. In the winter time, some green feed should be given at noon—cabbage or mangle-wurzels are good. If the birds do not eat all the grain that is scattered in the litter, reduce the quantity. Grit, oyster shells and water should be available for the birds at all times.

GOOD ROADS DAY IN KANSAS

(By United Press)

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 18.—Lawyer, merchant, and chief, not to mention the men of numerous other walks and professions, rolled up their sleeves today and in squads, companies and regiments attacked the mud holes and ruts in the Kansas highways. It was the first of the two days set aside by Governor Capper for observance as Good Roads day throughout the state. After the men had tired themselves out with pick, shovel and drag, they were refreshed with basket dinners prepared by their wives and daughters.

RACE AMONG STATES ON FOR COMPULSORY EDUCATION

Much Discussion of Problem Crystallizes into Law

A race to avoid being the last state in the Union to adopt compulsory education laws is apparently under way in the southern states, according to reports received at the United States Bureau of Education. There are now only three states without such laws, Florida having recently joined Texas and South Carolina in adopting compulsory education by legislative enactment. The three states still without such laws are Georgia, Mississippi, and Alabama.

Officials of the Bureau of Education pointed out that this year's compulsory education legislation is part of a big educational advance all along the line. Nearly all the state legislatures were in session during 1915 and much of the educational discussion that has been going on for several years crystallized into law. Alabama legislature has reconvened for the summer session and much school legislation will be discussed. The fact that the Alabama legislature does not meet again for four years makes it likely that Georgia and Mississippi may set ahead of her in adopting compulsory education, unless action is taken this year.

Another point that the Bureau of education remarks on is the fact that examinations for promotion in schools are going out of fashion.

"Few schools now rely upon examination as a test for promotion," declared W. S. Deffenbaugh, chief of the division of school administration of the U. S. Bureau of Education, in his annual review of school conditions in the smaller cities.

"In some schools," he said, "examinations count one-half, while in others they count only one-fourth. It is now recognized that examinations are not true tests of the pupils ability to do the next grade's work, and that a pupil would not be promoted on what he knows but on what he can do. Of 756 superintendents in the small cities, 669 say that they are now depending on examination much less than formerly."

KANSAS BUILDS ROADS

(By United Press)

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 18.—With the corn "laid by" and the threshing partly finished, Kansas today dropped their regular work and turned to repair the roads, badly damaged by a long continued rainy season. Thousands turned out in every section, of the state at the call of Governor Capper. A million dollars worth of work will probably be donated by citizens today and tomorrow in their efforts to get the highways in shape for moving the bumper crops to market when prices are "right."

JESS WILLARD

Miller Bros. & Arlington's 101 Ranch Wild West show is to exhibit in Clearfield Wednesday September 1. Advertising car No. 1 was in the city today and a small army of billposters and other advertising men were busy spreading the glad news.

While a Wild West show of notable excellence is promised, public interest in the coming of the big show has been particularly aroused by the announcement that Jess Willard, the cowboy heavyweight champion of the world, and his company of sparrers, will be seen here in conjunction with the wild west exhibition.

Willard was a cowboy long before his name became known to the general public or even to the "fans," as a ring gladiator. He is an expert rider and roper, and, singularly enough, some of his early experience as a cowboy was gained on the 101 ranch at Bliss, Oklahoma, from which the show, derives its name. Notwithstanding his giant stature, he has won many prizes as a broncho-buster, and he is one of the few ranch men who can wrestle with a steer and throw the animal without recourse to trickery.

Willard, it is announced, will positively appear at both performances in this city, first as a cowboy, and later in ring costume, when he will illustrate just how he won the championship from Jack Johnson.

The new champion, it is declared, is only one of many big features with the show. Scores of cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Mexicans and other strenuous Westerners combine in an exhibition that it said to be without a dull moment from start to finish.

There will be a picturesque parade at 10:30 on the morning of the exhibition.

42 Centimeter Guns Shatter Defense Of Fortress of Kovno

Russians Capitulat

MOST NOTABLE VICTORY SINCE WARSAW

(By United Press)
Berlin, August 18.—The great Russian fortress of Kovno was captured by the Germans last night by troops under General von Hindenburg.

An official statement from the war office declared the fortress of Kovno was taken together with much war material, which has been in the hands of the Germans since last night, including 400 cannon.

The capture of Kovno was the most important German victory since the taking of Warsaw. The Germans used 42 centimeter guns together with other heavy artillery to force the surrender of the Russian fortress.

The Russians are beginning to evacuate the fortified railway center of Bialostok, one of the final points on the Kovno-Brest Litovsk line, and the junction point of the great Warsaw-Petrograd railway and the Brest-Litovsk railway, before the onward march of Von Hindenburg's army. The big machinery works at Bialostok have been dismantled and removed to the interior. A large number of the civilian population has fled. Military men took this to mean that the Russians do not intend to hold the Kovno-Brest Litovsk line.

The German advance on Vilna on the Warsaw-Petrograd railway was due to immediate action of General Von Hindenburg driving in the north.

The fortress of Novogorodivsk is about to fall. German troops have advanced and captured two more of the forts on the northeast side of Novogorodivsk. Six hundred prisoners and twenty cannons were taken in the capture of the Novogorodivsk forts.

At the southern end of the Russian line of defense, Brest Litovsk is now under attack by Mackensen's troops who drove the enemy across the Bug and on to the outer positions of the fort.

Frank's Death.

(By United Press)
Atlanta, August 18.—Governor Harris will take personal charge of the investigation into the lynching of Leo M. Frank. It was announced at the executive office here today that Governor Harris was understood to be far from satisfied with the explanation given by the members of the official board of the state prison farm. It seemed impossible that Frank could be taken from the prison farm when it was so strongly guarded. The executive was also displeased that the Atlanta authorities permitted the body to hang while exposed to the view of thousands of people. The widow of Leo M. Frank is rushing to Brooklyn with the body.

CANVASS OF TOWN SHOWS INCREASE IN SCHOOL KIDS

119 More Pupils to Attend
Next Year Than Last Exclusive of High School

Figures of Officer Leavy Show Relative Increase in Various Wards of the School District.

Treasurer Officer Leavy has completed his canvass of the town to ascertain the number of pupils that would attend the public schools this year. It has just become known from these figures that there would be 1501 over the age of 6 and under the age of 16. This shows a marked possible increase over last year's attendance, as the total number enrolled for the year 1914 was 1382.

An increase was made in all the four wards, the third ward showing the largest increase which was 73 pupils.

In 1914 the enrollment from the first ward was 173 and in 1915 it will be 191, an increase of 18. In 1914 the enrollment from the second ward was 414, in 1915 it will be 418, an increase of 4 pupils. In 1914 the enrollment from third ward was 400 and in 1915 it will be 473, an increase of 73 pupils. In 1914 enrollment of fourth ward 390 and in 1915 will be 419, an increase of 29 pupils. The total enrollment for 1914 was 1382 and in 1915 it will be 1501, a total increase of 119 pupils. At this rate the new high school will soon be filled with an increase of 119 each year without counting the number of pupils who come into the high school from various schools each year.

MRS. PANKHURST LEADS 50,000 WOMEN DEMANDING WORK ON MUNITIONS TO SAVE ENGLAND.

Enormous crowds of women thronged Victoria Embankment July 17th despite a drizzling rain, to participate in the women's procession voicing the demand that the British government utilize women in the work of making ammunition and in replacing the men. It is estimated that 50,000 Women were in the procession which was led by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst (3rd from left, front rank.) With the paraders were also a number of titled women including Lady Colebrook, Lady Knollys and Mrs. Waldorf Astor.

Greater Losses Reported From Other Districts Following the Recent Gulf Coast Storm

(By United Press)

Dallas, Texas, August 18.—Railroadmen reaching Temple, Texas, from Houston over the Santa Fe reported great damage in the latter city as a result of yesterday's storm. Hundreds of buildings have been unroofed and many completely destroyed, they said. Electric and gas plants are said to be out of commission and the entire telephone system paralyzed. From Houston to Rosenberg the whole country is devastated and is under from two to four feet of water, according to the railroad men. They said they heard the damage in Houston alone estimated at $5,000,000.

Wire communications with Galveston, Houston and other gulf points is still cut off and cannot be renewed for several days.

Smithville, Texas, August 18.—The crew of a Stane Fe work train reaching here from Texas City junction at noon, reported the track torn up and that they were unable to proceed further. They say they found eighteen bodies at Hitchcock, 20 miles from Galveston. Several signs from Market street, Galveston, were found scattered all the way from Hitchcock to Texas City junction, they said. The water is reported to be three miles further inland than in 1900 when Galveston was nearly wiped off the map.

Austin, August 18.—Reports received here from Houston newspapers today stated that ten houses were blown down in Bellaire, a suburb. Two persons were killed. Practically every big establishment in Houston was badly damaged. Seabrook, a small town twenty-five miles from Houston was nearly annihilated. Texas City also suffered heavy damage and is in need of food supplies. A boat load of provisions has been sent there from Houston.

TEN KILLED AND THIRTY ARE HURT IN AIR RAID

Zeppelins Inflict Heavy Damage Somewhere on British East Coast

(By United Press)
London, August 18.—Zeppelin airships again raided the English east coast last night killing ten persons and wounding thirty six. The admiralty statement said the zeppelins escaped. This is the third air raid made by zeppelins on the east coast within eight days and the seventeenth air invasion of England since the war began.

This afternoon's official statement, like those issued following previous air attacks, contained no mention of the locality of the raid. The official statement said the "east coast" was raided. This was taken to mean that Kent and Essex, lying directly east of London in which the eastern suburbs of London are located, were visited by the zeppelin.

Weekly Weather Forecast

For week beginning, Wednesday, August 19, 1915

For Middle Atlantic States

Local showers Wednesday will be followed by comparatively cool and generally fair weather for several days, and again by showers toward the end of the week.

There is just enough danger to the success of the former members of the Washington party at the next month in the implied threat of the Democrats to challenge them to cause the former Ball-Moore to be wide awake to prevent the success of the Democratic challenge.

The law provides, "If an elector districts other than in cities of first, second and third classes, elected as a member of a party in the legislature then to write in the names of their candidates whether they are Democrats, Republicans or otherwise, and their vote will have the same effect as it would have if cast for a straight Republican ballot."

At the November election, members of the Washington party will change their registration prior to June 21, or at a later date under provision of the law, may not be challenged under the provision of the section of the election law, and will not be required to make oath that they voted for a majority of the public candidates at the last preceding November election.

All Republican candidates must bear these facts in mind and instruct the individual members of the Washington party who are registered this year as Republicans. If they are so instructed and will take the trouble to challenge to write in the names of their candidates on a Progressive ballot the boasted weapon of the Democrat will be robbed of its effect.

EARNST W. SMITH TO SPEAK AT CAMP MEETING FRIDAY

Clearfield's Woman Suffrage Association Obtains Prominent Speaker

Camp Meeting to be Benefitted by Opinions of Brilliant Author, and Lecturer—Helped Gain Woman the Vote in Washington.

The Clearfield Women's Suffrage association has succeeded in obtaining Earnst W. Smith to speak at woman suffrage at the Bigler camp meeting on Friday afternoon August 20. Some time ago Mr. Lammie suggested it to the association, as he thought that it would be a very good feature of the camp meeting program. Mr. Smith is well known over the west as an author, lecturer, and publicist. He aided the women to gain the vote in Washington in 1920. After the vote was won in Washington Mr. Smith made a careful study of the condition in that state and other suffrage states, which has enabled him to tell the real facts concerning woman suffrage.

This exceptional training and experience has made Mr. Smith an eloquent and forceful speaker. He has a keen sense of humor which makes his speeches bright and interesting. When he sets forth his first-hand knowledge of suffrage and its advantages, in his forceful style, he invariably makes a splendid impression on the cause.

ENGLISH PRISONER TELLS OF KILLING OF MEN IN TURKEY

New On Supposed by Ottomans to Determine Nations Future Existence

Constantinople, July 21 (By United Press Staff Correspondent)—The English prisoner of war, who was taken into the hands of the Turks, was unconsciously helped off by one of the Turkish soldiers recently. Upon his arrival at a hospital at which the American Red Cross is in charge he expressed his amazement at the resemblance of the American doctor, whose name for obvious reasons I dare not mention, to an English soldier whom his company had taken prisoner a few days before and later had killed.

Constantinople, July 21 (By United Press Staff Correspondent)—The English prisoner of war, who was taken into the hands of the Turks, was unconsciously helped off by one of the Turkish soldiers recently. Upon his arrival at a hospital at which the American Red Cross is in charge he expressed his amazement at the resemblance of the American doctor, whose name for obvious reasons I dare not mention, to an English soldier whom his company had taken prisoner a few days before and later had killed.

What became of some of the English and French who fell into the hands of the Turks, was unconsciously helped off by one of the Turkish soldiers recently. Upon his arrival at a hospital at which the American Red Cross is in charge he expressed his amazement at the resemblance of the American doctor, whose name for obvious reasons I dare not mention, to an English soldier whom his company had taken prisoner a few days before and later had killed.

Why, he was our prisoner," declared the simple minded and somewhat puzzled Turk.

He doesn't exist any longer in the mind of any Turk that the existence of the Ottoman empire is at stake in the fighting now going on at the Dardanelles. This is believed to explain to a large degree the manner in which the last men of the empire are being sent forward to fight and in which the government is permitting without protest to drain the entire treasury of its last resource for the conduct of the war.

Not a day passes at Constantinople but the trains and boats do not bring small but fresh contingents of men from the farthest points of the empire. A rule each lot does not number more than 50 or 100 but they come regularly every day if not several times a day. For the most part now they are old men with gray hair and beards. They march stolidly in rows, clad in rags with which they cover their heads or villages, and proceed to commissary headquarters. There they are fitted out with uniforms and arms and a few days later march out again for the Dardanelles.

In equal manner every incoming ship and ship brings its little quota of food for the army. For the most part, this consists of a herd of sheep, driven through the streets of the city from the train or boat that brought it in, to the army slaughterhouse, and the next day it too is rushed to the Dardanelles in the form of mutton.

To secure food for the army the government has adopted the rule of requisitioning everything it needs. Only in a very few instances has even a small portion of the price been paid for such. The rule is to give a receipt which states that the government at some indefinite time in the future will pay.

In strange contrast to the official announcements of continued successes by the Turkish troops on the peninsula is the arrival of the wounded, even without the official announcement that an engagement had taken place. The population of Constantinople would know it within 24 hours by the arrival of the wounded.

When the approach of a hospital transport is signalled all of the public cabs are ordered to the waterfront to bring the soldiers up to the hospital. Street cars flying the flags of the Turkish Red Crescent Society are also used. One night this intermittent cortege of wounded began passing my hotel at 10:30 in the evening. At 4:30 in the morning it was still passing. In as far as possible the wounded are made to arrive at night. It makes less impression on the public. It is now believed that there are not less than 100,000 at Constantinople but they are all soldiers with slight wounds or the most seriously injured are kept at Rodosto where more prompt attention can be given them.

In an effort to raise additional revenues for the war the duty on imports has been raised to 20 per cent. This does not apply to things which can be used in the conduct of the war. They come in without duty, the government reserving the right to requisition them as soon as they arrive.

The restrictions for the government of foreigners still being in Turkey have been doubled. To gain the empire a special permit must be secured from the police. To have this it is necessary to give 15 hours notice of the intention to leave. Then after the police have received all information possible from outside sources, the applicant must present himself per-

BASEBALL

Pitcher Ruth and catcher Cady of the Red Sox form the best hitting battery in the major league.

Its surely a strange sight to behold an outfielder Athletics down in the basement and the elevator not running.

The frequently reported sale of minor leaguers to the New York Yankees makes it appear that the Yankees are determined to strengthen their outfit at any cost.

Manager Huggins of the Cardinals says the Charley horse suffered by Outfielder Wilson has cost the Cards at least ten games this season.

George Cutshaw, the clever second baseman of the Superbas, certainly is coming into his own as a genuine star of our national pastime.

The fine work of Washington's young pitchers recently has been a great help to Walter Johnson in keeping the Griffins up in the race.

"Smoky Joe" Wood's return to pitching form has been the bright spot in the hard struggle of the Red Sox to keep out in front in the American league race.

George Brickley, brother of the Harvard star, has not been a success as a professional ball player. He has been released by the Lawrence club of New England league.

Now comes the hardest tussle of the entire season for the Phillies. From now on the Dodgers, Pirates, Braves, Cubs and Giants will be doing their durn'dst to overthrow Pat Morans husters.

Pitcher Barnes, who goes from the Three-I league to the Boston Braves, enters the main top with a record of having beaten the White Sox 3 to 2 in an exhibition game.

Since 1906, Ty Cobb's second season with the Tigers, he never has been outside the .300 set in hitting. Twice he has gone above the .400 mark, reaching .420 in 1911 and .410 the following season.

Charley Hall, the St. Paul pitcher and veteran of several big league campaigns, has set the American association agog by his wonderful twirling. His great work for the Keltys this season will more than likely land him another trial in the big show.

It will be a case of brother against brother next season when pitcher Goveleskie, recently purchased by Cleveland from the Portland Pacific coast league team, is pitted against Detroit's great heaver of the same name.

New York fans never could be made to believe it if the Superbas copped the National league pennant and won the world's series. Gotham bugs never have been able to see the Braves as a championship team, so how could they be expected to see Brooklyn.

The ten-cent baseball introduced by the Federal league may put a crimp in the attendance at the games of the International league and American association in the cities where these leagues clash with the Feds, but it is doubtful if the two-jitney articles is successful in the national and American league cities.

A team made up exclusively of former Cincinnati players who are still pasting in the big yard undoubtedly would be able to give the present Red outfit a real run for the money. The ex-Reds' lineup: Pitchers—Humphries, Cheney, Douglas, Ames and Tagon; catchers—Doolin and Gonzales; infielders—Johnson, Huggins, Egan, Lobert, Neihoff and Phelan; outfielders—Bescher, Paskert, Becker, Hinchman and Moran.

BRYAN AT SERVICES HONORING A FRIEND

(By United Press)
Bloomfield, Ia., Aug. 18.—William J. Bryan, former Secretary of State was the principal speaker here today at the dedication of Weaver Park, the old homestead of Iowa's soldier statesman, and reformer, purchased by the city and dedicated to his memory as a park. James G. Weaver and Bryan were lifelong friends. Bryan followed Weaver in his Populist campaigns and later Weaver was Bryan's right hand man in the first 16 to 1 campaign.

All through their public life Weaver cut the way to new reforms and before his death had started the nationwide prohibition movement as a political issue. Thousands of former friends of the dead statesman, many old soldiers who followed him in war and still other thousands of people anxious to hear Bryan are here today.

VIVIAN NICKALLS OFF FOR THE FRONT

(By United Press)
New York, Aug. 18.—Among the passengers booked to sail for the other side today is Vivian Nickalls, the well-known coach of the University of Pennsylvania rowing crews. Nickalls is an Englishman and is returning home with the intention of joining the British army on the continent. He is sensibly and about to an interrogation. If he can convince the police that his intentions for leaving are purely legitimate he is granted the "vetika" or permit.

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH OF AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

FRANCIS JOSEPH CELEBRATES 85TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

Health of Emperor Very Unsatisfactory—Never Recovered From Late Illness

Capital Displayed Many Flags But No Attempt Made to Make Popular Holiday—Funds Devoted to Relief Hospitals.

(By United Press)

Vienna, Aug. 18.—Amid the storm and streets of war the people of Austria-Hungary interrupted their daily routine today to pay tribute to the Emperor Francis Joseph on the occasion of the eighty-fifth anniversary of his birth. The capital displayed many flags in honor of the anniversary and Te Deums were celebrated in all the churches throughout the dual monarchy. There was no attempt, however, to make a popular holiday of the occasion. In accordance with the desire of His Majesty the funds customarily spent on popular festivities to mark his birthday were donated to the various war relief funds. During the day the venerable ruler received innumerable telegrams and letters of congratulations, including a partially felicitous message of greeting from the German Emperor.

The health of the aged Emperor is far from satisfactory. It is known that he never fully recovered from his serious illness of several years ago, although he made a brave attempt to get about as usual and to adhere to his customary daily routine. But months ago his uncertain step and his general bearing betrayed the fact that he was beginning to feel the weight of his years.

Since the beginning of the war the Emperor has passed much of his time in the solitude of his beloved Ischell, visiting the capital only when affairs of state demanded his presence here. His infrequent appearances in public of late have caused the circulation of all sorts of reports regarding his condition. It has been hinted that the venerable sovereign is rapidly breaking up mentally as well as physically and that he possesses no clear comprehension of the recent progress of the great struggle in which his country is engaged. The physicians in attendance as well as the members of his Majesty's entourage, have made vigorous and unqualified denials of these reports. On the highest authority it is declared that the brilliant mental faculties of Francis Joseph remain unimpaired and that his life is not seriously threatened by his physical ailments.

The deep concern manifested by all classes in the health of the old Emperor is not difficult to understand. He enjoys not only the love of the people he rules—a love having in it much of the intimate, unreasoning character found in that of a child for its father—but from foe as well as friend, from high and low, from high and low, from stranger and familiar, respect, sincere and full-measured, in his. It is this love and respect shown by all classes which, in the troubled times the empire is now experiencing, justify the statement that the empire in its present form will endure so long as Emperor Francis Joseph lives, and it is because of realizing how much of the old Emperor's power over his people is purely personal that calm-thinking men fear that when he has laid the scepter aside the entire governmental structure may be overthrown. Particularly are fears expressed as to the outcome should the passing of his Majesty occur before the restoration of a general peace.

Francis Joseph came to the throne in the midst of war and his long reign has been an unbroken succession of the most racking struggles. It is not the trait of the Hapsburg to yield and Francis Joseph can be counted on to fight to the bitter end. Yet there is sincere regret in the hearts of all his subjects that the subjects that the eighty-five-year-old Emperor is not even to be vouchsafed blessings of peace for his dying days.

EPISCOPALS TO HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC TOMORROW

The Episcopal congregation of Clearfield will hold their annual picnic at Mineral Springs park today. Due to a popular belief that the Frenchville picnic is always held on a day that good weather is assured the Episcopalians have decided to hold their picnic on the same day so as to have good weather for their annual outing. The people who wish to participate in the outing are requested to be at the church at 9 o'clock with everything ready. They will be taken to Mineral Springs in busses.

TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS DONATED TO LOCAL CHURCH

The Episcopal church has received a donation of $200 from Mrs. J. C. J. Kurtz to be applied on necessary improvements and have decided to have the inside of the church remodeled. The old carpet has been taken up and the floor filled and painted, carpet will be used in the aisles only from now on. A number of other changes have also been made.

SOUTHERN CATTLEMEN'S MEETING

(By United Press)
Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 18.—Evidence of the growing importance of the cattle raising industry in the south was afforded here today by the large and representative attendance at the opening of the third annual convention of the Southern Cattle-men's association. Nearly 1000 delegates were present, representing the States of Oklahoma, Texas, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Arkansas, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Louisiana.

Features of the initial session this morning were a greeting by Governor Henderson, the presidential address of F. L. Derby, of Ward, Ala., and an address by Dr. A. D. Melvin, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture.

Speakers to be heard at the subsequent sessions, which will continue three days, will include H. F. Auten, of Little Rock, Prof. D. T. Gray of Raleigh, L. A. Young of Chattanooga, Dr. W. H. Dalrymple of Baton Rouge, Archibald Smith of Robinsonville, Miss. A. L. French of Cascade, Va., and Prof. C. L. Willoughby of Gainesville, Fla.

BIG GOLF MEET OPENS

(By United Press)
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.—Professional and amateurs lined up to tee-off at the Glen Oak country club here today in the annual contest for the open championship of the western Golf Association. Prizes totaling over $700 will be divided five ways among the winners. In the event an amateur should win, an appropriate medal will be given him, and the full amount of cash named for such prize will be awarded to the professional next in order.

Members of all clubs holding membership in the association were entitled to enter and this brought out a goodly number of middle western stars of the links. Play will end tomorrow night.

DELTA THETA PHI FRATERNITY

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.—In the western open golf tournament which started today on the Glen Oak club links at Lombard, the golf cracks of the middle West are to strive for honors against the best of the Eastern talent, as represented by Champion Walter Hagen, Tom McNamara, and M. J. Brady. The tournament will be concluded tomorrow.

HOUSTON BECOMES

(By United Press)
Houston, Texas, Aug. 18.—The name of England's greatest land seaport? Manchester, which city in the great island of the United States? Such are the questions likely to be embraced in the geography lessons of American school children in the future, for with the arrival here tomorrow of the steamship Satillo, New York, Houston will take a place in the list of the country's seaports. The Satillo will be the first cargo going vessel to arrive here by way of a new ship channel connecting Houston with the Gulf. Her arrival is to be made the occasion for a big demonstration. As the vessel moves to the new municipal wharf she will be saluted with artillery and cheered by the Houston populace.

KEEPING CHICKENS ON A SMALL SCALE

Many Waste Products Can be Used for Food

(By United Press)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—Poultry can be kept successfully on a small amount of land, for this reason, it is particularly adapted to the suburbs of large cities and to small towns. The waste products of the kitchen and the table may be used to advantage and there is always a market for eggs and dressed poultry or, if used at home, the consumer is certain that he has strictly fresh product.

When many birds are kept in a small space however, the ground is likely to become foul. It is, therefore, advisable to divide the lot and sow part of it with some quick growing grain such as oats, wheat or rye. In this way the yards may be rotated every three or four weeks during the growing season, the hens being turned on the growing grain when it is a few inches high. A good combination is oats and wheat in equal parts, sowing six or seven bushels to the acre (43,560 square feet).

For the poultry house, about four square feet of floor space per bird should be allowed for the general purpose breeds. The other essentials are fresh air, dryness and sunlight.

Birds that are twofold will lay few eggs. It is, therefore, advisable to make them work for most of their feed by scratching in the litter of which there should be about four inches on the floor. A good feed mixture is a scratch ration composed of equal parts of corn, wheat and oats and a mash of two parts corn meal and one part each of bran, middlings and corn meal. Feeding about equal quantities of the scratch ration, and of mash. This should be scattered in the litter morning and noon, allowing a small handful for every three hens. At night the birds should be given all they can eat of it in a V-shaped trough. In the winter time, some green feed should be given at noon—cabbage or mangle-wurzels are good. If the birds do not eat all the grain that is scattered in the litter, reduce the quantity. Grit, oyster shells and water should be available for the birds at all times.

RACE AMONG STATES ON FOR COMPULSORY EDUCATION

Much Discussion of Problem Crystallizes into Law

A race to avoid being the last state in the Union to adopt compulsory education laws is apparently under way in the southern states, according to reports received at the United States Bureau of Education. There are now only three states without such laws, Florida having recently joined Texas and South Carolina in adopting compulsory education by legislative enactment. The three states still without such laws are Georgia, Mississippi, and Alabama.

Officials of the Bureau of Education pointed out that this year's compulsory education legislation is part of a big educational advance all along the line. Nearly all the state legislatures were in session during 1915 and much of the educational discussion that has been going on for several years crystallized into law. Alabama legislature has reconvened for the summer session and much school legislation will be discussed. The fact that the Alabama legislature does not meet again for four years makes it likely that Georgia and Mississippi may set ahead of her in adopting compulsory education, unless action is taken this year.

Another point that the Bureau of education remarks on is the fact that examinations for promotion in schools are going out of fashion.

"Few schools now rely upon examination as a test for promotion," declared W. S. Deffenbaugh, chief of the division of school administration of the U. S. Bureau of Education, in his annual review of school conditions in the smaller cities.

"In some schools," he said, "examinations count one-half, while in others they count only one-fourth. It is now recognized that examinations are not true tests of the pupils ability to do the next grade's work, and that a pupil would not be promoted on what he knows but on what he can do. Of 756 superintendents in the small cities, 669 say that they are now depending on examination much less than formerly."

KANSAS BUILDS ROADS

(By United Press)

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 18.—With the corn "laid by" and the threshing partly finished, Kansas today dropped their regular work and turned to repair the roads, badly damaged by a long continued rainy season. Thousands turned out in every section, of the state at the call of Governor Capper. A million dollars worth of work will probably be donated by citizens today and tomorrow in their efforts to get the highways in shape for moving the bumper crops to market when prices are "right."

HIGH SCHOOL PROF. RETURNS.

John A. Kase, principal of the Clearfield high school, returned last night to take up his duties for the coming term. Mr. Kase has been spending the summer visiting friends and relatives in the eastern part of the state.

Mrs. R. M. Hinson is visiting with Mrs. C. H. McCafferty, of DuBois, at present.

JESS WILLARD

Miller Bros. & Arlington's 101 Ranch Wild West show is to exhibit in Clearfield Wednesday September 1. Advertising car No. 1 was in the city today and a small army of billposters and other advertising men were busy spreading the glad news.

While a Wild West show of notable excellence is promised, public interest in the coming of the big show has been particularly aroused by the announcement that Jess Willard, the cowboy heavyweight champion of the world, and his company of sparrers, will be seen here in conjunction with the wild west exhibition.

Willard was a cowboy long before his name became known to the general public or even to the "fans" as a ring gladiator. He is an expert rider and roper, and, singularly enough, some of his early experience as a cowboy was gained on the 101 ranch at Bliss, Oklahoma, from which the show, derives its name. Notwithstanding his giant stature, he has won many prizes as a broncho-buster, and he is one of the few ranch men who can wrestle with a steer and throw the animal without recourse to trickery.

Willard, it is announced, will positively appear at both performances in this city, first as a cowboy, and later in ring costume, when he will illustrate just how he won the championship from Jack Johnson.

The new champion, it is declared, is only one of many big features with the show. Scores of cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Mexicans and other strenuous Westerners combine in an exhibition that it said to be without a dull moment from start to finish.

There will be a picturesque parade at 10:30 on the morning of the exhibition.
